

Script Submission: How It Works...

Hollywood Script Express allows your clients and new online customers to upload documents from their desktop for printing, binding and shipping from your store. This saves them valuable time and money, especially for out-of-state and overseas customers. As an Authorized Printing Partner all you would need to do is log in, download their document, photocopy and bind it, and ship it using our FedEx account. It's as simple as that. No tech knowledge or e-commerce involved.

Earn Commission for Referred Customers

As an Authorized Printing Partner you will be given a unique Account ID which offers customers you refer to Hollywood Script Express a discount on their first order. This code also allows us to direct their script submission orders to you and earns you commission on all of the future orders they place through our site. And since we will be cross-selling high-ticket products and services such as software and script coverage, the commission you earn could be considerable.

Connect with Online Customers without a Website

If you have been thinking about establishing a web presence but didn't know where to start or were worried about the cost and technical issues involved – Hollywood Script Express is the solution. With our unique service you do not need to have a website, merchant account or any technical knowledge, just access to email and the web. We handle all e-commerce, order processing and customer communication and simply email you when an order is ready to be printed and shipped.

Increase Sales with Online Exposure

By marketing your association with Hollywood Script Express in-store and online you will be giving your existing customers a choice for their script printing and photocopying needs and attracting new customers who are keen to use your online submission services. When you enrol in the Partner Program we will agree on a copying fee and handling charge that suits your business model and pay you all service fees and commission due every month via PayPal.
